

Kelly Burns, Editorial Director

Kelly Burns has over 13 years of experience in medical communications as both a medical writer/editor and project manager. She has successfully overseen large publications programs in all stages of product lifecycle providing strategic input and editorial support. Working with renowned subject experts, she has developed content for accredited and non-accredited symposia, enduring materials, advisory boards, investigator meetings, and speaker training programs. Her therapeutic areas of interest include hypertension, dyslipidemia, cardiovascular risk management, rheumatoid arthritis, and thrombosis.